

Winter Formal Offers Ellington Musical Treat

by Ed Clark

Get set for an amazing musical treat with Duke Ellington and his new world famous orchestra.

Ellington, creator of a new vogue in modern music, will play for the Winter Formal at the Ritz Ballroom, Dec. 12 from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

The Ellington group, who for the first time are playing for a University function, has played in every part of the United States, Canada and Europe to every kind of audience, young and old, highbrow and lowbrow, in dance halls and concert halls, in theaters and auditoriums—and once in Paris, in a bomb shelter—and over radio and television.

It has been said by critics that Duke Ellington's music and Walt Disney's cartoons are the only two original art forms America has produced. True or not, Ellington has been acclaimed throughout the world as the creator of a new, rich and distinctly American musical idiom.

Ellington has written such popular hits as "Don't Get Around Much Anymore," "Do Nothing til You Hear From Me" and "I'm Beginning to See the Light." Somehow Duke also found time to write a series of longer works, among them "Perfume Suite," "Liberian Suite" (a salute to the Republic of Liberia), "New World A' Comin'" and "Harlem." The latter was commissioned by the NBC symphony then under the baton of Arturo Toscanini, and performed by it in a memorable radio concert conducted by the Duke.

The Ellington Orchestra is now a top concert name. In January 1943, Duke Ellington played his first concert at New York's Carnegie Hall. At that time he introduced his first great and ambitious work, "Black, Brown and Beige," a "Tone Parallel to the History of the Negro in America."

Since that first concert in 1943 Ellington has played concerts in Cleveland, Boston, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, Chicago and other key cities. His current itinerary calls for eighty concerts a year.

No matter what Duke's repertoire for the occasion, it is sure to be a surprise rich in experience and enjoyment and therefore certain of acclaim.

Helicon Plans Art Festival

A plan for holding a "Festival of the Arts" at the University has been submitted to and accepted by Pres. James H. Halsey. Sponsors of this project are the newly elected members of Helicon's editorial board.

Tentative activities, which have been planned for the festival, scheduled to take place from April 13-20, include an exhibition of paintings and art work under the supervision of Prof. James O. Jackson, coordinator of the art department. A concert and a recital will be conducted by Edward Byerly, chairman of the music department. Helicon, published in a new format, will be presented at a prize-awarding ceremony. There will also be lectures, debates and an exhibition by a modern dance group.

Prof. Albert Dickason, director of the drama department, said that he would be only too happy to cooperate with the group's plans. If possible, he will incorporate his annual spring play to coincide with the festival week. "Unfortunately, we do not have the time to do both a spring play and a play for the festival."

If proper plans can be made, Dickason went on to say, we would run the play for the entire week.

The purpose of the "Art Festival," as outlined by Helicon's editorial board, is to stimulate the student body in the liberal arts and the arts proper. It also displays the work of students in the various departments to all the University. It will attract outside recognition to the University's liberal arts program. The festival will also improve the quality of "work on record" such as material published in Helicon, art work, etc.

Listed as the ultimate aims of the festival are: improving the quality of students' work in the department of the College of Arts & Science and to gain increased recognition. It will also bring the liberal arts program of the University to the people of Bridgeport and the surrounding area.

'Thunder' Opens Tomorrow

by Diane Ruscoe

A wide range of theatrical experience from amateur to professional will be featured this year in Campus Thunder, to be launched tomorrow, Saturday and Monday in the Klein Auditorium.

Two performers with professional status are Rufus Lumley, a freshman majoring in music education and Edward Frackman, a freshman majoring in drama.

Lumley has the featured role in Thunder of Heaven, the singer and dancer of a Boston burlesque house. He is more widely known by his stage name, Ray Richards. He has appeared all over the country singing, dancing and acting on television, radio, in nightclubs and in movies. Some of the television shows he has performed in include Blue Angel, Mr. Peepers, Suspense, Kraft Theatre, Eddie Fisher's Coke Party and the Robert Montgomery Theatre. He introduced the song, "Two Little Words" on the Bert Parks radio bandstand and has sung in such nightclubs as the Waldorf Astoria Starlight Roof, the Boulevard Terrace and others in Miami and San Francisco. He has acted in such notable movies as "The Eddie Duchin Story," "Rock Around the Clock" and "Mr. Rock and Roll." His voice has been dubbed in several foreign language movies.

A show business career for Lumley began Dec. 10, 1952, when he sang in a contest sponsored by the Bridgeport chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association of America. One of the judges was the director and producer of the then popular Paul Whiteman TV Teens' Club show. Lumley won the contest and was asked by the director to appear on the Whiteman show, also a singing contest.

By winning this contest, he was introduced to Buddy Barnes, local trouper. Barnes made an appointment for Lumley to audition before Pat Fahy, director of Kids and Company TV show. He appeared on the show three times. The last show of the season, New York dancing teacher George Trainor asked Lumley if he would begin lessons at his studio. Shortly after Trainor became his personal manager.

A "gentlemen's agreement" was made between the Lumley family and Trainor stating that if Lumley lived in New York, Trainor would sponsor all his drama, singing and dancing lessons and his education. During the five years that followed, he attended the Professional Children's School and the Lodge Professional High School.

The national political conventions of 1956 sent Lumley to Chicago and to San Francisco, where the respective Democrats and Republican conventions were held. He played the part of an 18-year old boy in a television manufacturer's commercials for both conventions. The director of the advertising agency for the commercials arranged his appearance on the Bert Parks bandstand. His meteoric rise in television and movies followed. He has also modeled for J. C. Penny clothes, Ipana toothpaste and Brylcreem hair treatment advertisements.

Lumley's plans for the future are to study for a degree in music education and continue his career in the theatre.

Edward Frackman is a featured member of the chorus.

He has acted on television's Studio One and has appeared on the Ernie Kovacs show, Herb Sheldon show and "Star Time."

Frackman's interest in acting stems from nursery school, in Bell Harbor, L. I., where he played his first role in Hansel and Gretel. When he was in junior high school, he began to take all courses pertaining to drama and began private speech lessons in Brooklyn. He also took tap and acrobatic lessons.

In 1955, Frackman started lessons at the Star Time studios in Jamaica, L. I. Five months later he appeared on the Star Time television show.

When Star Time's television season ended for the year, Frackman began making the "rounds" of the casting offices. An agent for the NBC studios encouraged 15-year old Edward and said he should continue to try to develop his talent.

Frackman recalls how he came to appear on the Ernie Kovacs show. One day he took an early train into New York City to the NBC studios. He tried to look very important by carrying a Star Time briefcase. When he saw two guards flanking the door, he waved to "someone he knew" going into the elevator. Frackman says he did not have any trouble getting into the building. One of the "bit men" in the Kovacs show became ill, and he was recruited to play an audience participation role.

His plans center around the theatre. He is now undecided whether to act or to produce, but he is sure he will make his career in the theatre.

Allocations Total $16,400

The Student Council has voted $16,400 in allocations to various University organizations. There is $1,900 left from the activities fee that every student paid in the fall. The Student Council will use this sum to operate for the year stated Andy Mitchell, president of the Student Council.

Mitchell, a senior majoring in elementary education, said that he hopes the Student Council in the future will allocate money to groups for expenses based on a set rate for all organizations. The way it is now, the group asks for a certain amount and the Student Council votes on it. If the allocation to certain groups were cut they would suffer he says.

Mitchell hopes that the University will take care of any financial need a group might have after the proposed set rate allocations are carried out.

The amounts allocated by the Student Council are: the Scribe, $5,000; Student Spirit, $500; Student Education Association, $110; German Club, $50; French Club, $50; Ski Club, $23; Social Activities, $3,700; Beta Alpha, $60; SAM, $325; Biology Society, $65; Men's Senate, $110; Helicon, $432; NSA, $55; PRF, $430; Engineering Society, $275; Industrial Design Society, $85; Marketing Club, $200; Sociology Colloquium, $560; Women's House Government, $435; Wistarian, $3193; Debating Society, $546.50; and the Photography Club, $60. The Chess Club allotment is uncertain.

AN ETHNIC NIGHT

On the Monday prior to turkey day, more than 225 persons got together at the St. John the Baptist Carpatho-Russian Recreation Center for a Russian dinner, some entertainment and a lecture and film narration by Peter S. Hardy, president of the Peerless Aluminum Foundry.

The affair was co-sponsored by St. John's Church and the University's Sociology Colloquium. It was one of the many "ethnic nights" arranged by the Colloquium to acquaint University students with many of the groups that make up the society of Bridgeport and the nation. Well over 100 UB-ites attended.

The positive results of such community-campus get-togethers are many. During one of these "nights," students are treated to rare and tasty dishes and witness the entertainment that is characteristic of many Americans who have come from other lands.

But more than this, the students get to meet and talk to these people and come away with a more acute awareness of the thinking of these newer Americans. The beliefs and understanding that was gleaned from such as the Russian group will prove to be invaluable in being able to know our society.

Perhaps the most interesting person of all at the dinner was Mr. Hardy. Of Ukrainian birth, Mr. Hardy has built up a very successful business in this country. And, when talking with this man, it is easy to understand how he did it.

Mr. Hardy is a man who thinks not only of the present and the past but also of the future. Recently returned from an extended tour of the Soviet Union, Mr. Hardy's lecture was immensely enlightening. His films offered a realistic study of the country that is the heart of communism.

Even more interesting was our discussion with Mr. Hardy. His understanding of both our ways of thinking compared with that of the Russians was tremendous. He is as much a realist as an idealist. He recognized the achievements of Russia and did not attempt to minimize their progress. Mr. Hardy characterized the average Russian into an understandable figure.

His discussion of the Russian student and system of education brought out the attitude of the Soviet youth today. After talking with Russian students, Mr. Hardy has earnestly sought out American students to let them know what is happening in Russia and how our Soviet contemporaries view the future of the world. Let's face it; the analogy between students of both countries can be embarrassing.

But through such people as Mr. Hardy and organizations such as the Sociology Colloquium, American students have an opportunity to understand the world society and do a little positive thinking. The Colloquium, with Dr. Joseph S. Roucek as advisor and community coordinator, along with an enthusiastic group of students are illustrating an important point — We are not alone in this world and if we are going to survive, we must try to understand our fellow man.

Decrease Noted in Part-Time Jobs

There are not as many part-time jobs available for University students this year as there were last year, states Mrs. Mildred Ferrera, assistant director of placement.

Only 100 students have been placed in jobs to date this year, while over 600 students were working at the beginning of the 1957-58 academic year.

Students should not be discouraged by this," Mrs. Ferrera says, "and, although jobs have been coming into the office at a slower rate, a few students are placed each week.

Mrs. Ferrera says there are usually jobs open in private tutoring which is the most lucrative offering, and that students interested in good pay need only to state on the application if they are qualified to tutor in a particular subject.

The placement director stated that students having classes in the afternoons and evenings would gain more part-time opportunities during the morning hours.

She advises each student to go out and "sell himself" to a prospective employer and feels that through this experience, the student will be better equipped to face a permanent employer.

Students wanting part-time employment may check at the Placement Bureau, located on the third floor of Howland Hall.

Berlin Crisis Is Another Test Of Western Powers' Unity

Kremlin tactics and Western doubts are again well illustrated in the on-again, off-again Berlin Crisis.

The Reds are particularly skillful in using threats, propaganda and a flexible policy to test our reactions. As we retreat they advance. As we hold fast they too stay put.

They wanted to know how the West would take unilateral Soviet action changing the status of occupied Berlin. So the Soviet probe went into action. It began with a speech by Khrushchev telling the world that the Western powers would have to get out of Berlin. Then came all-out attacks in the East German Communist press against the allied occupation of Western Berlin. Moscow's Pravda then backed up these attacks.

The next move was a cocktail party statement by the Moscow Ambassador to Bonn that the traffic controls over access to and egress from West Berlin would be turned over to the East German Government as a kind of Christmas present. At the same time the East Berlin Government assured the West Berliners they had nothing to fear if traffic control into and out of West Berlin should be turned over to the German Communist regime. They assured West Berliners they would continue to be free to travel between West Berlin and Western Germany.

In the meantime Russians carefully studied Western reaction to these diverse moves. They soon learned they could not expect any sharp division in American opinion. Prominent Democrats such as Adlai Stevenson and various Democratic Senators endorsed the announced Administration intention of defending the present status of Berlin. Minnesota's Democratic Senator Humphrey made a special trip to the German Capital to emphasize his public assurance to Mayor Willy Brandt of Berlin that there would be no back-down on the part of the United States.

But Russians also learned there are serious differences of opinion between the three occupying powers on just how to treat Russia's new threat.

Britain is perfectly willing to see the Russians turn over to the unrecognized German government control of traffic between Berlin and West Germany. The British claim that dealing with

KALTENBORN EDITS THE NEWS

East German traffic officials does not mean recognizing the East German government. France might or might not support us in a decision to deal with no one but the Russians.

The truth is that we and the British have never been in complete agreement on how to deal with the Russians on the Berlin problem. On my repeated visits to Berlin, General Lucius D. Clay when he was the American Commander and his successors always emphasized that their chief problem in standing firm against the continued Russian pressure was the disagreement with our British and French allies. Nothing much has been said about this in public, but it explains our continued failure to halt the Soviet Union's steady progress in taking over, first, the City Hall, then several small disputed areas, then more of the transport and power resources of the great city.

Finally came the attempt to isolate West Berlin from West Germany. We answered by inaugurating an expensive airlift that kept the West Berlin population on starvation rations.

While in Berlin last week Senator Humphrey suggested we could mount another airlift if there should be another blockade. He failed to add that a renewed airlift would be infinitely more expensive and more difficult. West Berlin today has a well-developed industry which relies for its fuel and raw materials on outside sources. The population, which now amounts to 2,250,000, has developed a much higher standard of living.

Before the first airlift began it was suggested that we should enforce our rights by sending an armed convoy into Berlin by roads and by rail. The British and French rejected this suggestion. They said it involved the risk of war.

Today there would be an infinitely greater risk of war if we tried another airlift. The Russians could interfere with it by jamming our radar, which is essential to the operation of planes into Berlin in winter. They could also shoot down our planes when they stray out of the 20-mile neutral corridor. An occasional mistake is almost inevitable.

Our only sound policy is to be completely firm from the beginning. We must refuse to have anything to do with East German control officers. Roads, railways and canals leading into and out of West Germany must pass through East Germany, which is controlled by the Russians. It is the Russians who are responsible for traffic regulations and for giving us passage. We are in Berlin by right of conquest, by right of agreement with the Russians and by consent of the legal government of West Germany. We have refused to deal with the puppet government of East Germany because it was established by and is controlled by the Russians.

We must continue that refusal. We have already made too many concessions to Communist aggression for the sake of peace. The time has now come to stop making concessions in order that peace may be preserved. Whether it be Quemoy, Berlin or anywhere else, we must stand on our legal rights. As Hitler said in "Mein Kampf": "Once your opponent begins to give he will go on giving provided you do not ask too much at one time."

Engr. Society Seeks Members

The engineering society with its present state of 70 members hopes to double its membership this year.

Robert Moran, president of the society, is a senior majoring in mechanical engineering. He stated that the society wants to get second semester freshmen and sophomores interested. He realizes that new engineering students are afraid to do anything more than study, but he said that the society is a great aid to the newcomer. A big brother campaign will be started this year to help and inform the new student.

The society has been very successful in getting jobs for graduating engineering students. With Frank S. Wright, director of the Placement Office helping, the members are scheduled for interviews with various companies that send interviewers during the year. Twelve or more companies

The society is also planning to sponsor some social activities.

Do You Think for Yourself?

(THESE QUESTIONS WILL TELL YOU!*)

- Do you find going "off the beaten track" on a trip (A) interesting and constructive, or (B) merely inconvenient?
- In a heated discussion would you rather (A) be the "moderator" or (B) jump in on a side issue any argument to win?
- Before making a complex decision is your first move (A) to marshal the facts, or (B) to ask the advice of a respected friend?
- Do you (A) try to handle what each day brings, or (B) face problems as they come along?
- When you step up to a cigarette counter, are you (A) confused by all the conflicting filter claims you've seen, or (B) sure of what you want because you've thought things through?
- When writing a letter applying for a job, would you try to make it (A) as colorful as possible, or (B) factual and concise?
- If you were getting furniture for a room, would you look first for (A) something comfortable, or (B) something colorful and unusual?
- Would you prefer a job (A) in an old established firm offering security, or (B) a small company which could expand rapidly?
- Would you rather be known as a person who (A) works well with others, or (B) accepts responsibility on his own?

You will notice that men who think for themselves use Viceroy. Why? Because they know what they want in a filter cigarette. And so do you. A thinking man's smoking man's taste.

*If you have checked (A) on first 4 questions, and (B) on last 5... you think for yourself.

ONLY VICEROY HAS A THINKING MAN'S SMOKING MAN'S TASTE

NEWLY ELECTED Capt. Chuck Milot and varsity coach Herbert Glines get together before opener against Yeshiva.

Knights Face Sailors Here

by Andy Morgo

Coach Herb Glines' basketball team began its season this week as it played host to a strong Yeshiva University five yesterday. The Knights have two other home games this week as they meet the U. S. Coast Guard Academy tomorrow and play host to a very strong Manhattan five Saturday.

The biggest handicap that this year's squad will be facing is the lack of a big man under the boards. The loss of 6-6 Hal Helerman from last year's team will definitely hurt the team's rebounding strength. The bulk of the rebounding will have to be carried by Ed Wycoki, 6-3 center and jumping Joe Colello, 6-2 forward. Both men are seasoned veterans and know their way around the court and under the boards. These two men will also be expected to aid in the offensive attack.

The bulk of the scoring is to be placed on the shoulders of the two guards. Last year's scoring leader, Bob Laemel, will again operate at one of the guard positions. At the other guard spot will probably be Tom Lipkowitz, last year's freshman scoring leader. Tony Granger, who teamed with Laemel at the guard spot last season, was injured in a recent workout and will be out of the lineup for quite some time. Granger, who earned varsity letters last year in football, basketball and baseball, did not play football so as to concentrate on basketball, but injured his right knee and will be out of action for at least a month.

The big question mark is who will get the starting call at the other forward position. Capt. Charlie Milot, a three year letter man, Charlie Doyle, and Jim Romanello, a transfer from Springfield College, have all been working out at the position. Also available for duty inside is Tom McCarthy, who was one of the mainstays of last year's fine freshman unit.

Showing promise for backcourt duties are Bill Darraugh and Ev Hart. Both men are juniors and saw action last year. Hart, because of soccer, got a late start and is now rounding into shape.

Other men who will see plenty of action are Bob Lazar, George Deiter and Tom Shea.

Refreshments will be sold at all home games by the members of Circle K service fraternity. Let's get behind the boys as the money received will be used for worthy campus projects.

Charlie Milot Captains Cagers

Charlie Milot was picked by the members of the 1958-59 basketball team as its captain for the coming season. Dr. Herb Glines, basketball coach and athletic director for the Purple Knights, made the announcement.

Milot is a three year veteran of the basketball and baseball teams. He can be used either at the forward position or at the guard spot. Last season, Milot started the first eight games at the guard post but was later moved to forward to aid the team in the rebounding department. In baseball, he plays the outfield and is one of the better glove men on the team.

Milot, a senior in the Arnold College division of the school, hails from nearby Newtown. He played his high school ball at Stratford High. Milot also gained valuable experience while playing service ball. He was in the Air Force for four years and was active playing for service teams in the states and in Europe.

Dixon Eyes Pro Offers

George Dixon, perhaps the best football player ever to play for the Purple and White, has ended his collegiate career, but all students are hoping to see Dixon next season entering the pro ranks. It is no secret that Dixon has been contacted by many pro clubs and with his natural football ability and determination, he should be a success.

ED. NOTE—Notice was received by the Scribe just prior to press time that Dixon has been named to the Little All-American team and will play in the annual Little All-American bowl game on Jan. 3 in Tucson, Arizona.

Dixon, who ended his college days as the East's leading ground gainer with 1106 yards, averaged over seven yards per carry. Considering he played for a team which only won three games, this is quite a feat. Last week he was named on the All New England second team. This team includes all colleges in New England, major and minor, and he was the only small college back picked. Dixon has made the All State team the past two years and should be placed on the Little All American team which will be picked later this month.

In the last issue of the SCRIBE this column, it was mentioned that Social Activities Committee dropped the ball in regard to the Christmas Ball of "yesterday." This week it would be well to mention the fact that YOU dropped the ball by not representing your organization on this committee, so that if this situation became one of debate, you would have a voice in the matter. FURTHERMORE, if there is not any added talent to the Social Activities Committee (manpower-wise), there might be many other things changed at this University. Hop down off those high horses and get on these committees; you finance them!

Friday night will see another opening of our fantastic CAMPUS THUNDER. "Banned In Boston" will provide some more excellent entertainment in the true Dickason manner as the curtain rings up on opening night. Following the performance, Alpha Delta Omega will present their annual dance "The First Nighter" at the Ritz Ballroom, from 9 till 3. B.Y.O.B. tops the menu, and your checks will bounce to the tune of $2.00 per couple. No party-goers, that is not a typographical error, it IS 3:00 a.m.

Well done, Arnold College, your skating party of last week is the topic of much conversation lately. All comments are of the favorable variety; as a matter of fact, you had better plan another one soon, before you are petitioned to do so.

The Brothers of Upsilon Beta Sigma welcome their four new brothers who were formally initiated last Monday night. The new members are: Jack Conley, Dennis Williams, Alan Bjork, and Jack Auletta.

THE STUDENT UNION (hint-hint) BOARD OF DIRECTORS will present the Ralph Stuart Trio, featuring the electric guitar, on Dec. 14, as part of the Winter Weekend. The trio will play between the hours of 3 and 5; coffee and hot chocolate will be served from 5 till 6. Check the bulletin boards for details.

Well, well; Mr. Nowland received a ticket for parking on Campus the other day. That's efficiency for you.

Wisteria Hall's famous Room No. 5 boasts of Maryann Marcus and her date bureau. Miss Marcus and her able assistants carry on their little committee with much proficiency. These young coeds even find time to sell encyclopedias as a side-line.

Dr. Hans Apel, head of the Economics department at the University, is convalescing after a surgical operation which necessitated his absence from campus. Although the students in the various economics courses are breathing easier during this unavoidable detention, they wish the "Good Doctor" a speedy recovery and a quick return to the classroom so that they do not become "academically unconditioned" during his leave of absence.

Bits of Blasts... Vern "Mush" Cormier, "The Golden Tongue" of Shrewsbury, Mass., went home this weekend and patched everything up... John Marshall seeking to join SAM... Ed Coffey, TS, interested in local real estate... Ralph Garofalo (Capt., one each) very leery of Ed Clarke's "taste test" in experimental psych. lab... "modern diagram ming," by a fine artist, becomes abstract in Social Psych... Gail Kaufman and Mickey Rosenblum were the life of the party at a dinner-dance given by Linda Zahler and Gene Marsh.
